Security

We use certain physical, organizational, and technical safeguards that are designed to maintain the integrity and security of information that we collect. Please be aware that no security measures are perfect or impenetrable and thus we cannot and do not guarantee the security of your data. COOKIES POLICY

We use cookies and similar technologies to provide you with a better user experience. Continue browsing if you are happy with this, otherwise you are free to change your cookie settings in your browser.

Cookies Explained

1. What is a cookie?

Cookies are small files that identify your device or browser to remember your browsing paths. We store your information when you sign in to our website. This makes it easier for you to sign in and access information quickly. Cookies fit into two general categories: 1) data that lasts only during your browsing session until you close your browser or 2) data which lasts until you delete the data it expires as not relevant.

2. How are cookies used?

We use cookies and similar technologies to provide you with services and to collect data. Most web browsers are pre-set to accept cookies, but if you do not want to receive cookies, you can adjust your browser settings to warn you when they are being used or to refuse cookies. You can also execute the option to use certain websites that you trust to store cookies.

3. How long do cookies last?

Temporary cookies: Cookies make it easier for you to use our site, so if you accept cookies on our site, then when you return, you will not have to submit your information and passwords. If you want to know more about cookies, there is an abundance of useful information on: <https://ico.org.uk>

Session cookies: If we employ Adobe Flash technology, then your device or browser will store the data from that session. We could use web beacons, which help us collect data about users of services that we provide, by us, or through a vendor.

4. Cookies explained in detail.

In our ongoing partnerships, we could expand our operations which would mean that we would also use partners, third party vendors, to help us get the job done. These vendors might track technologies if you use our services. We would only use tracking technology to improve your experience on our website or to conduct transactions with us. These varied tracking products include: Mobile Software Development Kits (SDKs), which are used by developers to add features to a mobile app. Features include: ads, data collection, and related analytics that allow the mobile app to work.

THESE ARE DATA PRIVACY RIGHTS THAT WE TAKE SERIOUSLY:

To Be Informed About Your Data

We collect your data to make our interactions smoother, and we will advise you of the purpose for which we collect personal data. We will ask for your permission if we want to use your personal information for another purpose. We will collect your personal information fairly, lawfully, for legitimate purposes only and where appropriate, only with your knowledge and consent.

To Be Informed Where Your Data Is Located

We will advise you where your data is located and how we transfer your data as part of the services that we provide to you. We also protect your data and identity. We confirm that only you are accessing our website and services. Stably uses Amazon Web Services (AWS) and Google Drive with strong data protection and regulatory compliance policies. We will store your data at AWS and encrypted Google Drive repositories in North America and we can access or process that data from the US or a vendor located internationally. We will take all possible reasonable security safeguards against loss, unauthorized access, destruction, or improper disclosure of personal information. Cross border data transfers will occur if you conduct business in the future with Stably. This means that in order to execute our transactions, we will send or retrieve data across a border. Our trans border data flows will be protected under secure principles that do not create obstacles to developing economic relations. We will transfer your personal data to fulfill a contract that we enter together with you, for example, to process a payment or other lawful purposes. Remember, that you can withdraw consent for marketing purposes at any time.

Consent

We will inform you clearly which data we want to collect and how we want to use it so you can give informed consent. We do not use pre-ticked boxes and we ask you to positively show us your consent by ticking a box. You may withdraw consent at any time. If you wish to withdraw your consent or unsubscribe from any of our communications, you may contact us at: privacy@stably.io. We will keep a record of when and how we get consent from you so that we can be accountable. It is our practice to regularly review consents to check that the relationship, the processing, and the purposes are consistent.

Access

You have the right to ask us for information that we have about you, and in most cases, we will try to do this for no charge. If there is a burdensome amount of information, then we will ask you for a nominal, reasonable fee. We will try to satisfy your request in under 30 days, which is the time that we have under law. If we are unable to fully comply with your request, you can appeal to the data supervising authority, and you must do that within 30 days. We will, of course, try our best to deliver the data to you before that timeline.

Rectification

It is important for us to keep your trust, and so we will take care to keep your data accurate and to up to date. If you inform us of a change, then we will take steps to amend that data as soon as is reasonably possible. We want to make sure that any data we have about you is lawfully kept and that it is accurate.

Erasure

You may ask us to delete your data and withdraw consent at any time. We will honor this request as allowed by law. After a reasonable, legal period of time, we will not keep your data. So, for example, if you we end up doing business together through a contract, we will only keep the contract specific information as long as the pertinent laws require.

Restrict Processing

At any time, you can inform us that you want us to restrict processing and we will satisfy that request as soon as reasonably possible. Some types of processing are required for us to continue our relationship with you. In those cases, you will be informed that it is not possible to restrict processing as requested and continue to be a client of Stably. Of course, we will always follow relevant laws about electronic record retention.

Portability

If you give electronic personal data either by 1) consent to store your data or 2) we enter into a contract with each other, then you can request us to provide you with machine-readable data of your account information. In the case that we would process your data via automated means, you would also have this right, called the Right to Portability.

Right Not To Be Subjected To Automated Decision-Making, Including Profiling

Stably's technology does not employ automated decision making according to artificial intelligence. You are protected from that at Stably.

Object

If you are a resident of the European Economic Area, the UK, or Switzerland, and you are not satisfied with our data processing methods, you may complain to the data privacy authority where you live.

Updates To This Privacy Policy

We may make changes to this Privacy Policy. The “Last Updated” date at the top of this page indicates when this Privacy Policy was last revised. If we make material changes, we may notify you through the Services or by sending you an email or other communication. We encourage you to read this Privacy Policy periodically to stay up-to-date about our privacy practices. Your use of the Services following these changes means that you accept the revised Privacy Policy.
